A tour of the Supreme Court

Thursday 9 May 2019, 6.30 - 8.30pm

Meet at: The Supreme Court, Little George Street, SW1P 3BD

The Supreme Court opened its doors for the first time in October 2009 in the Grade II* listed Middlesex Guildhall, on Parliament Square. The Law Lords, who used to sit in the House of Lords, are now seen to be entirely separate from the legislature.

Chief executive Mark Ormerod has kindly offered to give us a private guided tour of this historic building. We'll see a fascinating exhibition area in the ground floor, once the cells for prisoners awaiting trial, three courtrooms and the beautiful library (a former courtroom) which is not usually open to the public.

A glass of wine will be served at the end of the tour.

KS members £15, non-members £20

Hill & Park at the Frestonian Gallery

Thursday 20 June 2019, 6.30 - 8.30pm

Meet at: The Frestonian Gallery, 2 Olaf Street, London W11 4BE

The Frestonian Gallery is based in the Victorian redbrick People's Hall, once the focal point of the Free Independent Republic of Frestonia, the protest movement that in 1977 declared independence from the UK and even applied for full membership of the United Nations. As a gallery, it remains a creative hub for writers, artists and musicians.

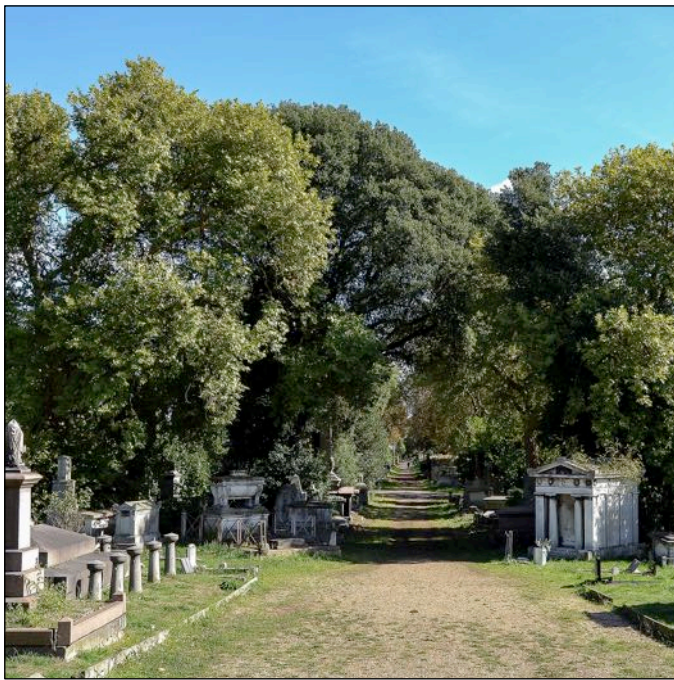

In May and June, the gallery is hosting 'Hill & Park', an exhibition of work by many of the artists who have called Notting Hill and Holland Park their home. Exhibitors include Patrick Caulfield, Lucian Freud, Patrick Heron, David Hockney and Bridget Riley and others.

At our private view we'll have a curator's tour while enjoying a glass of fizz.

KS members £15, non-members £20

A guided tour of Kensal Green Cemetery

Tuesday 16 July 2019, 6.30 - 8.30pm

Meet at: The Dissenters Chapel, Kensal Green Cemetery, Ladbroke Grove, W10 5AA

Kensal Green Cemetery was opened in 1833 in response to the rapid expansion of the population of London. It was conceived as a beautiful garden of remembrance with formal avenues balanced by informal planting to provide an arcadian feel.

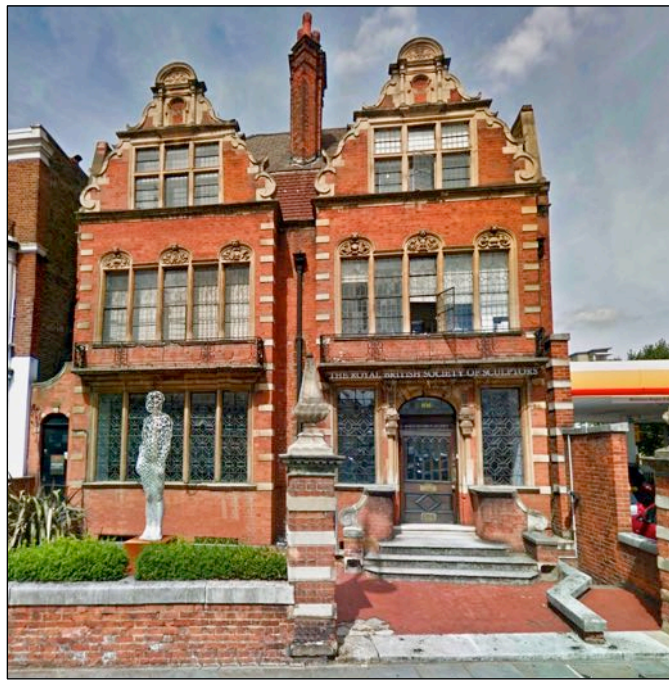

The cemetery has many famous residents, such as The Duke of Sussex and Princess Sophia (son and daughter of George III), two Brunels (father and son), William Makepeace Thackeray, the artist John Tenniel and, more recently, the designer Ossie Clarke.

Come with us on a special guided tour, led by the trustees of the Friends of Kensal Green, ending at the Dissenters Chapel for drinks.

The group is limited to 20, please sign up early.

Visit to the Royal Society of Sculptors

Thursday 10 October 2019, 6.30 - 8.30pm

Meet at: Dora House, 108 Old Brompton Road, SW7 3RA

Since 1976 the fascinating Dora House has been home to the Royal Society of Sculptors. Originally Georgian, the building was given its ornate red brick front in 1885 to provide an imposing studio for court photographers Elliott and Fry. In 1919 sculptor Cecil Thomas moved in and the house has been little changed since.

In October we are invited to a private view of a brand-new exhibition of work by two important Japanese sculptors: Jiro Takamatsu and Keiji Uematsu. We shall be hosted by president of the society Clare Burnett and director Caroline Worthington who will tell us how they intend to rescue this historic house.

Drinks will be served from 6.30.

KS members £15, non-members £20
